Passage 3

'Old wives tales' are beliefs passed down from one generation to another. For Example, most of us remember our parents' telling us to eat more of certain foods or not to do certain things. Is there any truth in these teachings? Some of them agree with present medical thinking,- but others have not passed the test of time.

Did your mother ever tell you to eat your carrots because they are good for your eyes? Scientists now report that eating carrots can help prevent a serious eye disease called macular degeneration. Eating just one carrot a day can reduce the possibility of getting this disease by 40%. Garlic is good for you, too. It can kill the type of virus that causes colds.

Unfortunately, not all of Morn' s advice passed the test of medical studies. For example, generations of children have been told not to go swimming within an hour after eating. But research suggests that there is no danger in doing so. Do sweets cause tooth problems? Well, yes and no. Sticky sweets made with grains tend to cause more problems than sweets with simple sugars.

Even though science can tell us that some of our traditional beliefs don't hold water, there is still a lot of truth in the old wives' tales.After all, much of this knowledge has been accumulated(积累) from thousands of years of experience in family health care.We should respect this body of knowledge even as we search for clear scientific support to prove it true or false.

A. Subjective B. Objective
C. Dissatisfied D. Curious
70. Which of the following is WRONG? A. There is not much truth in the old wives' tales.
B. Carrots are good for our eyes.
C. Going swimming an hour after eating is safe.
D. 'Old wives tales' are worth our respect .

Passage 4

My summer hols wr CWOT. B4, we usd 2 go 2 NY 2C my bro, his GF & thr 3:-@ kids FTF ILNY, its gr8.

Can you understand this sentence? It is called Netspeak. It means: My summer holidays were a complete waste of time. Before, we used to go to New York to see my brother, his girlfriend, and their three screaming kids face to face. I love New York; it's great.

Is Netspeak harming the English Language ? Schoolteachers and parents say this new form of writing is harming the English language. They fear the language could become corrupted（面目全非的）.

However, linguists (语言学家) believe Netspeak is in fact more of a good thing. David Crystal, from the University of Wales, argues that Netspeak and Internet create a new language use and the almost lost art of diary writing has been picked up again. Geoffrey Nunberg, from Stanford University, agrees. "People get better at writing," he says, "Kids who are now doing text messaging,e-mail and instant messages will write at least as well as, and possibly better than their patents."

Linguist James Milroy says, for centuries, people believe that young people are harming the language. And when today's teenagers become tomorrow's parents, they too will think this way. Mifiroy argues that languages do not and cannot become "corrupted"; they simply change to meet the new needs. Perhaps we should give teenagers a little more trust anyway.
