As you are working, keep your eyes on your own test booklet and answer document. If you have a question, raise your hand, but do not look around. If you are involved in any of the actions listed below, you will be dismissed and your answer document will not be scored. Prohibited behaviors include:

continuing to write after time is called on each test (You must put your pencil down when time is called.)

looking at another student's test booklet or answer document using any device to share or exchange information at any time during testing or during the break (all electronic devices, including mobile phones and MP4s, must be turned off from the time you are allowed to test until you are dismissed after testing)

trying to remove test materials, including questions or answers, from the test room not following instructions by the rules of the test center allowing a clock or mobile phone to sound in the test room

If you finish before time is called, review your work on the test you have just finished. If you are satisfied with your answers, place your answer document inside your test booklet and close the cover. Sit quietly until the teacher gives you further instructions.

You will have two tests in the morning and a short break between the tests. Do not leave the building during the break. You must ask permission to leave the room during testing to go to the restroom; you will not be allowed to make up the time you miss.

You will be required to sit quietly until you are dismissed. After all answer documents and test booklets have been collected, the teacher will dismiss you.

I have a love-hate feeling with 8 o'clock classes. I like to get started that early, but most students don't. They usually came in late and looked sleepy at that hour.

One day I was really angry at it. I was excited about the history lesson, but no one else seemed to be. I wrote things on the blackboard. I moved around the room. I told stories. I tried humor. It was useless. Their looks didn't seem to change. I was frustrated.

I forgot to keep time. I was going to talk more when I looked down at my watch. It was already two minutes past the end of class. So I just ended suddenly and soon the students began to pick up their book bags and rushed out of the door on their way to another class.

While I was watching them leaving, I put away my own books, notes and papers. I took them up and stepped out into the hall. I was tired and a bit sad. I had put everything I knew into that class and it had not seemed to work. Then, as I started across the hall to my nearby office, a student came out of the back door of the classroom and caught up with me.

Randy sat at the back of the classroom. I thought he wanted to ask why I didn't correct their exam papers or maybe he wanted to ask for leave or.... It was none of that. With his eyes sparkling, Randy said, "This is the first time I've not wanted a college class to end."

The tiredness lifted. I had done better than I thought. 1 don't know if Randy will ever understand how much he did for me that day.

Recently, a professor of philosophy in the United Slates has written a book called Money and the Meaning of Life. He has discovered that how we deal with money in our day-to-day life has more meanings than we usually think. One of the exercises he asked his students to do is to keep a record of every penny they spend for a week. From the way they spend their money, they often see what they really value in life.

He says our relation with others often becomes clearly defined when money enters the picture. You might have wonderful friendship with somebody and you think that you are very good friends. But you will know him only when you ask him to lend you some money. If he does, it brings something to the relationship that seems stronger than ever before. Or it can suddenly weaken the relationship if he doesn't. This person may say that he has a certain feeling, but if it is not carried out in the money world, there is something less real about it.

Since money is so important to us, we consider those who possess a lot of it to be very important. The author interviewed some millionaires in researching his book.

Question: What is the most surprising thing you have discovered about being rich, because you are a self-made man?-

Answer: The most surprising thing is how people give me so much respect. I am nothing. I don't know much. All I am is rich.

People just have an idea of making more and more money, but what is it for? How much do I need for any given purposes in my life? In his book, the professor uncovered an important need in modern society: to bring back the idea that money is an instrument rather than the end. Money plays an important role in the material world, but expecting money to give happiness may be missing the meaning of life.

( ) 83.According to the first paragraph, people have not realized _____.
A. how important money is in their day-to-day life
B. how one spends money shows what is important to him

D. that their understanding of life is more important than money

( ) 84.The author seems to believe that asking your friend to lend you some money _____.
A. is a good way to test your friendship
B. will do harm to your friendship
C. will strengthen your friendship
D.is a good way to break off your friendship

( ) 85. What can we learn about the millionaire from his answer in the interview?
A. He does not feel that he is well educated
B. He does not think that he is a very important person
C. He does not think that being rich deserves so much attention
D. He does not consider himself to be very successful

( ) 86.What does the American professor of philosophy want to explain in his book?
A Money is an end. B. Money is a means
C. Money is everything. D. Money is unimportant.

SZU reaches out to high schools by allowing advanced credits

Shenzhen University announced that it would allow high school students to take eight courses before graduating from high school. The credit points would be added to their academic transcripts when entering the university. Daily Sunshine reported on December 23,2015.

According to the university, high school students would be able to take online courses in poetry, history, economics, statistics, advanced math, basic animation design, computer science, music, health and English.

Li Qingquan, SZU's president, said the reason Shenzhen University launched the move is because many outstanding high school students will find university life confused when they just graduate from high school. The course plan is expected to help these students adapt to their university lives with less tension. "Universities are not connecting enough with local high schools at the moment," said Li. Apart from accepting advanced credit points, Shenzhen University is going to develop more programs with high schools.

According to the university, cooperative programs include visiting events, excursions and summer camps. Also, the university's admission officers will visit local high schools to coach students on applying to universities. The summer camp will take place every summer and the first camp is going to kick off next year. All Grade 11 students will be eligible to apply for the camp, which will be offered free of charge.

设置了五篇阅读，量很大，阅读文章难度也较高篇幅也较长，提高阅读能力最好的办法就是多读书，课外可以选一些较容易的英文书籍进行阅读，长久积累，必见效果！

定义题和首字母填空题非常考验孩子们的词汇量，所以平常背单词还是非常有必要的啊。语法填空总体难度中等偏上，考察了介词的使用，固定搭配，时态以及被动语态。第一空 think to oneself 就是“自己心里想”，记住介词是 to。第六空 come to life 意为苏醒；振作起来。在这里意思取后者。第七空，这句话意思为他的喊叫声在街上都能被听到，所以要使用被动语态。第九空 dress 在这里是动词，副词修饰动词所以要将 neat 改为 neatly 副词形式，意思是整洁的，优雅的。
